Choosing exterior house colors can be a difficult proposition. Proper color combinations highlight beautiful features, and boost the curb appeal and market value of your home.

But how do you choose from a rainbow of color samples as your neighbors glare with anticipation? Follow these helpful tips and you’ll find colors to fit your personality and the neighborhood!

Learn from the Past
For a historic home, you’ll want to use an historically-accurate color scheme. Find old pictures of your house and neighborhood, or visit your local historical society for information. Or, refer to historic color charts and select shades that were used at the time your home was built.

Keep Up with the Jones’
Look at your neighbors’ houses for color ideas, but don’t copy them exactly. Avoid clashing with your surroundings by choosing colors that set your house apart, but match the basic scheme of the neighborhood.

Get Back to Nature
Nature is blooming with color ideas. Examine the landscape around your house to find inspiration. A beach setting suggests vivid blues, weather-beaten grays, and bright coral colors. A wooded area may suggest a palette of greens and browns.

QUICK TIPS
- Strike a balance by not overloading a single aspect of your house with one color.
- Use lighter and darker shades of the same hue to ensure a match.
- Light colors add size to your home, while darks scale things down.
- Too many colors are distracting, but too few may seem bland.
- Turn your house inside out by using the colors you’ve chosen indoors.
You never get a second chance to make a first impression, so greet visitors in style by updating your home’s curb appeal. Accent the primary architectural features of your home by focusing on the details.

1. Easy Hardware
   Replace your house numbers, lockset, mailbox, and light fixtures to add an element of style and interest. Hardware upgrades are easy and provide the most appeal when they match.

2. Color Splash
   Your front entry is the focal point of your home’s curb appeal. Make a splash by giving your front door a pop of color that reflects your personal style. Choose a favorite color from your home’s interior.

3. Growing Panes
   Window boxes are a fast, easy way to bring color and charm to your home exterior. Choose copper or iron for a traditional look, or painted wood for a cottage feel. Plant flowers to suit the season.

4. Bright Idea
   An older gutter system can be a drain on your home’s curb appeal. Peeling paint, rust spots, and other problems convey a sense of neglect. So replace old systems with bright new vinyl gutters and downspouts.
An attractive and functional front-yard landscape adds style to your home by increasing curb appeal and creating useful spaces. Complement the architecture of your home by reflecting its shapes and colors in the surrounding landscape.

Uphill Battle
Mix groundcovers, ornamental grasses, evergreens, annuals, and perennials to create a planting bed on hard-to-maintain grassy slopes. Plantings that rise up to your house make the home appear grander.

From the Ground Up

Walk This Way
Transform your sidewalks into stylish statements by edging them with easy-care plants such as variegated hosta and boxwood. Make the plants flow by putting a gentle curve in the path.

Set the Stage
Play up the drama in your yard by selecting bold elements that call attention to themselves and make a statement. Spiral-pruned junipers flanking the front walk create a sense of grandeur and formality.

Flower Power
Create lasting impact by planting colorful blooms throughout your yard, either in pots or directly in the ground. Use bold, bright hues and various sizes to accentuate areas of interest.
